To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing regarding the localism campaign and the potential removal of a translator station in favor of LPFM stations. Specifically, if this action is taken then one of the best radio stations on the air, K-LOVE will not be available to me. How do I know it is the best, well it is a station I know will not expose my children to anything other than good wholesome entertainment. There are fewer and fewer entertainment venues that can boast as family friendly and K-LOVE is one of those. I know my children can listen to K-love and my desires for my children will not be undermined by music or commercials. Are there local radio stations that can take the place of K-LOVE for my family and other families like ours? I don't think so as we have searched the dial and have yet to find the combination of clear signal and programming that we find with K-LOVE. Furthermore, we travel weekly between Austin and Dallas and have found K-LOVE can be found throughout the trip. In the past this was not the case forcing us to turn to other means of entertainment and education. Replacing K-LOVE with a local low power FM station would remove the well known positive and encouraging radio we have come to know and expect for who knows what.

Keep the translator stations so that good wholesome radio stations that provide a turn service, like K-LOVE can stay on the air and flourish meeting the needs of not only this family but many others now and countless into the future. Thank you for your time.
